Goodyear Metropark: There is a parking lot with restrooms on Newton St. Four of us spent all morning slowly walking the various trails through a variety of habitats: woods, wetlands, secondary growth and open fields.

I recommend that you look at the trail map before you start so that you can plan a strategy to avoid repeating coverage and double counting.

Freedom Trail: Since the trail is not a loop we used two cars to avoid the need to double back. We parked one car in Talmadge where the Freedom Trail crosses Southeast Ave. and a second car in the Metropark parking lot on Arlington Rd. The walking distance is about three miles. There are a variety of habitats. Dress appropriately. Our only problem has been keeping warm.
