Laurie Graber
Wildlife Research Technician
Ohio Division of Wildlife, D-3

I will cover the history of geese in Ohio and how their numbers have grown to what they are today. Along with this, I'll talk about the different surveys we use on geese in Ohio and the difference between resident and migratory geese. For those who are wondering what they can do to rid their property of geese, I'll cover some harassment tactics that can be used to help alleviate the problem. I will also cover nuisance goose permits that can be issued from March 11- August 31st.

I graduated from Hocking College in 2004 with a degree in Wildlife Management. I started working for the Division of Wildlife in 2004 and have been in my current position as a Wildlife Research Technician since 2006. I mainly deal with nuisance and injured/orphaned wildlife along with doing wildlife research surveys.
